Product description

GS110TP is a managed (smart managed) 8-port Gigabit PoE switch with two SFP fibre ports. According to Panasonic, it is suitable for small and medium-sized PAVA systems that need network connections and PoE power for local devices such as microphone stations, control units and IP interfaces.

PoE supplies power to the device over the same Ethernet cable, which reduces cabling. The power per port is up to 15.4 W and the switch's total PoE power is 46 W. The fibre ports are suitable for long links and for connection to the main network. The switch supports VLAN and QoS functions, access control lists (ACL), 802.1x port authentication (MD5), rate limiting and IGMP snooping.

The switch has no fan, so it is suitable for noise-sensitive spaces. According to Panasonic's technical datasheet, PoE switches between microphone stations must be powered from a power supply intended for fire safety use.
