Product description

Panasonic 2324W is a white mounting base for Panasonic conventional detectors, such as the 4452W optical smoke detector and the 4318 combined heat detector.

The base has screw terminals to which any type of cable can be connected. The built-in LED lights up when the detector fitted in the base goes into alarm. An external remote indicator 2218 can also be connected to the base; it is used when the detector is concealed, for example above a suspended ceiling or in a locked room.

The base is low-profile (Ø 102 × 15 mm) and weighs 59 g. The operating temperature is -10...+50 °C and the relative humidity below 95%. The manufacturer also offers grey and black versions of the base. The base is CE marked and intended for Panasonic conventional fire alarm systems in which the detectors are connected to a zone line.

Compatibility

- Optical smoke detector 4452W
- Combined heat detector 4318
- Other Panasonic conventional detectors for which 2324 is specified as the base
- Remote indicator 2218 (5-35 V DC, IP42), which lights up at the same time as the detector indicator
